

Town of Wallingford

Economic Development Commission

January 10, 2012

PRESS RELEASE

At last night's Wallingford Economic Development Commission meeting, Mr. Richard Nunn, Chairman for the past 13 years, stepped down as Chair but agreed to continue to stay on the Commission and assume the Vice-Chair position. Mr. Nunn has served as Chair since January 1998 and says that he would now like to get more involved with downtown and Wallingford Center, Inc. Joseph Mirra, the current Vice-Chairman, was voted in as the new Chair of the Commission.

"Dick's imprint is readily apparent on the Commission", reports Doreen DeSarro, Economic Development Business Recruiter. "For example, it was his idea to establish subcommittees for marketing, retention and incentives, and planning and zoning. These are the major areas of activity for an economic development commission and the staff".

"Dick's interest in the economic well-being of this community and our residents is unparalleled", offers Joe Mirra. "He works timelessly at selling the community and building the effectiveness of the Economic Development Commission. I am pleased he is continuing as Vice-Chairman".

The Commission and staff provide assistance to businesses seeking to relocate and/or expand in Wallingford. Businesses seeking information can go to the Town website (www.town.wallingford.ct.us) and click on Economic Development. Ms. DeSarro can be reached directly at 203-294-2062.
